

CONTENTS

Preface . . . . .	V
Chapter 1. The need to improve international migration statistics . . . . .	1
A. Purpose and scope of this book . . . . .	8
B. Major findings and limitations of this book . . . . .	10
Chapter 2. Concepts underlying international migration statistics . . . . .	15
A. Citizenship . . . . .	16
B. Residence . . . . .	18
C. Time . . . . .	21
D. Purpose of stay . . . . .	24
E. Place of birth . . . . .	26
F. Considerations in the assessment of international migration statistics . . . . .	29
G. Framework for the identification and classification of international migrants . . . . .	32
H. International migration and economic activity . . . . .	48
Chapter 3. Data collection systems concerning all international migrants . . . . .	51
A. Population censuses . . . . .	52
B. Population registers . . . . .	75
C. Registers of foreigners . . . . .	102
D. Administrative sources . . . . .	114
E. Border statistics . . . . .	136
Chapter 4. Data collection systems concerning labour migration . . . . .	161
A. Work permit statistics . . . . .	161
B. Reports by employers . . . . .	179
C. Statistics derived from the control of contract labour migration by countries of origin . . . . .	182
D. Statistics derived from regularization drives . . . . .	197

Contents

Chapter 5. Data collection systems providing information on asylum-seekers and refugees . . . . .	213
A. Dynamics of change of the refugee population . . . . .	216
B. Statistics derived from the provision of assistance . . . . .	221
C. UNHCR practices regarding the gathering of statistics on refugees . . . . .	226
D. Statistics on asylum-seekers . . . . .	229
Chapter 6. Design of surveys to investigate the determinants and consequences of international migration . . . . .	237
A. Use and limitations of existing sample surveys . . . . .	238
B. Design of surveys for the analysis of the determinants and consequences of international migration . . . . .	245
C. Sample design . . . . .	267
D. Other data collection approaches relevant for international migration . . . . .	288
E. Content of questionnaires in surveys to analyse the determinants and consequences of international migration . . . . .	293
F. Questionnaire for surveys in countries of destination and origin . . . . .	305
Chapter 7. Measurement of remittances . . . . .	321
A. Definition of remittances in the system of national accounts and in the balance of payments . . . . .	321
B. Problems involved in measuring migrants' remittances and other international transactions relative to international migration . . . . .	332
C. Financial flows at the micro-level: Remittance data from household surveys . . . . .	339
D. Concluding remarks . . . . .	360
Annex 1. Model questionnaires for country of destination . . . . .	363
A. Household questionnaire . . . . .	363
B. Individual questionnaire . . . . .	368
C. Community-level questionnaire . . . . .	398
Annex 2. Model questionnaires for country of origin . . . . .	403
A. Household questionnaire . . . . .	403
B. Individual questionnaire . . . . .	404
Bibliography . . . . .	411
Index . . . . .	427