

Contents

CHAPTER ONE: Up to 1854

Industrialization; the First Workers' Education Associations . . .	9
The Revolution of 1848/49, "Worker Fraternization"—The First Trade Unions	11

CHAPTER TWO: 1860–1878

General Association of German Workers—Congress of German Workers' Associations—The Founding of Trade Unions	13
The General Federation of German Workers	16
The Hirsch-Duncker Movement	17
Production Co-operatives	17
The Trade Regulations	18
The Efforts to Form Centralized Unions	19
The Christian Workers' Movement in the 1870s	21

CHAPTER THREE: 1878–1890

Prohibition and Dissolution of Trade Unions	24
New Beginning	25
The Aftermath of the Socialist Law	27

CHAPTER FOUR: 1890–1914

Economic Upturn—Political Stagnation—Social Injustice	29
Social Legislation	31
The First of May and the Calling of the General Commission . . .	32
Union Congress of Free Trade Unions	33
The Founding of the Christian Trade Unions	36
The Relationship Between Free Unions and the Social Democrats—The First of May and Mass Strike	40
Support Facilities and Wage Agreements	42
Conflict with Employers—Employer Organizations	45
Hindering Trade Union Activity	46
Organizational Matters	47
Union Internationals	48

CHAPTER FIVE: 1914–1918

The Outbreak of War	49
New Union Tasks—Union Demands	50
The Law on Auxiliary War Service	51
Split in the Social Democratic Party—The 1917 and 1918 Strikes . .	52

The Free Trade Unions' Social Programme	54
End of the War	55

CHAPTER SIX: 1918–1933

The Revolution of 1918	57
Central Working Group	59
The Basic Covenant	60
Works Councils	62
The Tasks of the Works Councils	64
Socialization of Basic Industries	64
General German Confederation of Trade Unions (ADGB)—General Confederation of Free Employees (AfA-Bund)—General German Confederation of Civil Servants (ADB)	67
Quarrels with the Communists	71
International Trade Union Federation—Sectoral Secretariats	72
Christian Trade Unions and the German Trade Union Federation (DGB)	73
Works Associations—Union Ring of German Labourer, Employee and Civil Servant Federations	75
Profiling the Trade Unions	75
The Kapp Coup	76
Union Wage Policy After 1918	79
The Struggle in the Ruhr: Hyper-Inflation	79
Conflict with Employers	80
Economic Democracy	81
Wage and Social Policy Successes	82
Rationalization: Challenge, Opportunity	82
The End of the Republic	84
National Socialism and the Trade Unions	88
Dictatorship: The Destruction of the Trade Unions	88

CHAPTER SEVEN: 1933–1945

The Dismantling of Union Achievements—The German Labour Front (DAF)	90
Emigration of Trade Unionists—At Home, Resistance and Persecution Trade Unionists as Victims of Totalitarianism	92
	94

CHAPTER EIGHT: 1945–1949

The Reconstruction	96
Unitary Unions	98
The Unions' First Post-1945 Tasks	99
Reorganization of the Economy and Society—Co-Determination	100
The Dismantling of German Industry	102

CHAPTER NINE: 1949–1985
The DGB's Foundation and Its Statutes	104
Purpose and Tasks of the German Trade Union Federation	104
Organizational Tasks	107
Membership	108
The Unions in the DGB	108
The DGB's Structure and Its Organs	109
The DGB's Federal Level	110
The DGB's State Level	111
The DGB's District Level	112
The DGB's 1949 Programme of Basic Demands	112
The Unions' Social Policy	115
The Battle Over Co-Determination, 1950–1951	116
Agreement on Co-Determination	117
The Works Constitution Law of 1952	119
The Parliamentary Election of 1953	120
Christian Federation of Trade Unions (CGB)	122
The DGB and Rearmament	122
1955 Action Programme	124
Preparation of the New Basic Programme	126
Highlights of the 1963 Basic Programme	126
Economic Principles	129
Social Principles	130
Social Policy on the International Level	131
Principles of Cultural Policy	131
First Discussion of Reforms	132
The Emergency Law	133
The 1965 Action Programme	135
Efforts to Broaden Qualified Co-Determination	138
Renewed Discussion of Reform	141
The 1972 Action Programme	143
The 1972 Works Constitution Law	145
The 1979 Action Programme	146
The 1981 Basic Programme	149
Combating "Social Dismantling"	153
CHAPTER TEN: The Legal Status of Trade Unions	156
CHAPTER ELEVEN: The German Trade Union Federation
Unions and Politics	158
Unions' Worldwide Co-operation	159
Europe	160
Co-Determination	161
Co-Determination in the Whole Economy	163

Property Accumulation Without Illusions	164
The DGB and Environmental Policy	166
The DGB and the Humanization of Working Life	167
The DGB and Rationalization	169
Labour Studies and Labour Sciences	170
Collective Bargaining Policy	170
Mediation	172
Labour Struggles	173
Legal Protection	175
The Future of Labour Law	176
Economic Policy	177
Housing Policy	179
Policy on Transportation	180
Crafts	181
Social Policy	182
Better Retirement Insurance	183
Safety on the Job	184
Health Policy	184
Social Insurance and Self-Administration	186
Educational Policy	186
Occupational Education	188
Educational Programmes for Trade Unionists	189
The DGB's Cultural Activities	190
The DGB's Media Policy	191
The Trade Union Press	193
Public Relations	193
Foreign Workers	194
Pluralism Within the Industrial Union	195
Employees	196
Labourers	198
Civil-Service Officials; the Public Service	199
Women	200
Young People	203
The Ideological Stand of the Trade Unions	204
CHAPTER TWELVE: Union Institutions
The Hans Böckler Foundation	207
The Economic and Social Sciences Institute	208
CHAPTER THIRTEEN: The Contemporary Role of the Union's Co-operative Enterprises, Commonwealth and Other Non-Profit Enterprises	210