

CONTENTS

Preface	v
1. Freedom of association and the ILO
The ILO: an outline	1
Types of ILO instruments	3
International labour standards on freedom of association	3
2. Compliance and complaints: ILO procedures on freedom of association
Supervision and application of ILO standards	9
Constitutional procedures for representations and complaints	12
Special procedures on freedom of association	13
ILO Committee on Freedom of Association: Rules	17
Composition and status	17
Responsibility of the Committee	17
Form of complaints	18
Receivability of complaints	18
Communications with complainants	19
Withdrawal of complaints	20
Relations with governments concerned	20
Hearing of the parties	21
Recommendations of the Committee	21
Effect of ratification	22
3. Guarantee of freedom of association without distinction whatsoever
Occupational groups	23
The public service	23
Agriculture	24
Other classes of workers	25
Employers	25
Other grounds for discrimination	26
Race	26
Nationality	26
Political affiliation or activities	27

Freedom of association

4. Freedom to associate without previous authorisation

Formalities	29
Filing of rules	30
Registration	30
Appeals	32

5. Freedom of choice

Structure and composition	35
Minimum number of members	36
Occupation or branch of activity	36
Public servants	36
Managerial and supervisory staff	36
Trade union monopoly	37
Trade union monopoly and registration	38
Trade union monopoly and representativity	38
Trade union monopoly and union security	39
Government pressure or favouritism	41

6. Freedom of organisations to function:

1. Guaranteeing the framework for activities

Constitutions and rules	43
Elections	45
Eligibility	45
Election procedures	47
Intervention by the authorities in trade union elections	47
Removal of executive committees and placing of trade unions under control	48
Dismissal of trade union officers	49
Dissolution and suspension of organisations	51
Right to establish federations and confederations	52
International affiliation	54

7. Freedom of organisations to function:

2. Administration, activities and programmes

Administration	57
Financial administration of trade unions	58
Activities and programmes	61
Political activities	61
Protest action and the right to strike	63
General principles	64
Prerequisites for strike action	65
Temporary restrictions	67
The public service and essential services	67
Safety and minimum services	69
War and states of emergency	70

Course of the strike	70
Police intervention	71
Pickets	71
Penal and other sanctions	71
Dismissals	72
Imprisonment	72
8. The right to organise	76
Protection against acts of anti-union discrimination	76
General principles and types of discriminatory acts	77
Trade union leaders and representatives	79
Machinery and procedures for assuring protection	80
Protection against acts of interference	80
9. Collective bargaining and agreements	84
General principles	85
Civil servants and other public employees	86
Representation of workers	86
Recognition of trade unions and representativity	86
Voluntary character of collective bargaining	88
Level of collective bargaining	89
Collective agreements and legislation	89
Prior approval	91
Subordination to economic policies	91
10. Trade union rights and civil liberties	94
Right to security of the person	94
Physical assaults and ill-treatment	94
Arrest and detention	95
Preventive detention	96
Due process of law	96
Freedom of movement	97
Right of assembly	97
Public meetings and demonstrations	98
International trade union meetings	99
Freedom of speech at the International Labour Conference	99
Freedom of opinion and expression	100
Authorisation and censorship	100
Protection of trade union premises and property	101
States of emergency (states of siege, martial law)	102
Epilogue	105
Appendices: Basic ILO documents on freedom of association	107
I. Constitutional	107
II. The main operative provisions of the principal international labour Conventions relating to freedom of association	112
III. International labour Recommendations relating to freedom of association	127
IV. Resolutions of the International Labour Conference	145