

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	ix
1. Introduction	1
2. Globalization: Characteristics, issues and concerns	5
What is globalization?	5
Globalization: An empirical sketch	8
Globalization: Then and now	16
Globalization: Issues and concerns	17
Appendix 2.1 List of countries	21
3. Trade and global income inequality	23
Introduction	23
Global income inequality, 1981-97	24
The preliminaries	24
Inter-country inequality, 1981-97	26
International inequality, 1981-97	29
Trade liberalization and global income inequality	31
Conclusions	37
Appendix 3.1 List of countries	38
Appendix 3.2 Percentage distribution of population by the inequality trend in countries of residence	39
4. Trade, jobs and wages	41
Introduction	41
What does economic theory tell us?	43
The basic analytical framework	43
A necessary dose of realism	45
The empirical evidence	47

Jobs and incomes in a globalizing world

Trade and the pattern of specialization	47
Employment and wages in industrialized countries	51
Employment and wages in developing countries	60
A summing up	73
Appendix 4.1 Classification of manufacturing industries	77
Appendix 4.2 Ratio of manufacturing employment to total civilian employment, average annual growth rate (%), various years	78
Appendix 4.3 Trade performance, selected ME countries, various years	78
5. Trade and international migration	79
Introduction	79
Trade and international migration: Insights from economic theory	80
International migration in the 1990s: The evidence	83
The trends	83
The phenomenon of brain drain	87
International migration, then and now	91
Conclusions	92
Appendix 5.1 Cumulative effects of emigration on population and labour force in European countries, 1870–1910	94
6. Trade and labour standards	95
Introduction	95
Trade and labour standards: Theory and evidence	96
Some preliminaries	96
An analytical perspective	97
“Unfair trade” and “social dumping”	100
“Race to the bottom”	102
Improving labour standards in a developing economy	103
Concluding remarks	107
7. Conclusions	109
References	117
Index	123
Tables
2.1 Capital and labour mobility, 1980 and 1998	9
2.2 Structure of world trade (% share)	11
2.3 Manufactured exports, 1980–82 and 1996–98	12
2.4 Trade in manufactures, developing countries, 1980–82 and 1996–98	13